APPOINTING EXECUTORS

Executors carry out the instructions in your Will. If your arrangements are simple, one Executor will suffice, but it is a good idea to name two. If a child or Trusts are involved, two Executors are essential. Your Executors can be relatives, friends or you can appoint Dale & Co. You should ask the person you wish to appoint as an Executor before naming them in your Will; it is a serious obligation. Executors can be a beneficiary but cannot witness your Will.
